PISD Requires Immunizations

Parents of students new to the Plano Independent School District should begin to insure that their children meet the state health regulations for students, according to school health director Winnie Lyle.

Those regulations stipulate that each student in grades K-5 must be immunized against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, Red measles and German measles. Older students are only required to have had polio, diphtheria and tetanus boosters after having completed the regular immunization series.

"This means that students in kindergarten through the fifth grade must have had a series of three doses of vaccine for polio, tetanus and diphtheria and that the last dose must have been administered after the student was four years old," Mrs. Lyle said.

"Those same children need to have had one dose of German measles vaccine and either one dose of Red measles vaccine or the illness to the age of 12 to meet present requirements," she continued.

For students 12 years and older, no immunization is required for either Red or German measles. Students in grades 6-12 must have had a series of three immunizations or boosters for diphtheria and tetanus within the last 10 years and a polio booster since the age of four, Mrs. Lyle said.

"If the number of doses required have been received, but the last dose was before the time stated, then an additional dose of polio, diphtheria or tetanus vaccine is required," she explained.

The health director also noted that a signed statement from a physician or the Health Department certifying that the immunizations have been administered must be on file with the schools before a student will be allowed to enroll for the 1977-78 fall quarter.

"We would encourage parents to check their children's immunization records now so that any boosters or vaccine that might be needed can be administered before school begins Aug. 29," Mrs. Lyle said.

The school nurse also pointed out that a free immunization clinic is held the third Monday of each month at Democratic Headquarters in Plano.

Exclusions from compliance with the immunization requirements may be obtained if the immunizations may cause physical impairment or if they are opposed because of religious beliefs.

Mrs. Lyle stressed, however, that parents must present an affidavit in claiming either a medical or religious exclusion.

Crash Kills Local

Kenneth A. Gersbach of 1624 Lorraine was pronounced dead at the scene of an airplane crash last night at approximately 9:50 p.m.

Collin County Sheriff's Dept. officials say that Gersbach was flying his single-engine Sidewinder plane near Airport when it crashed just north of the airport near Bacchus Rd. in the far southwestern portion of the county.

A witness reported seeing the aircraft roll over on its back in the air then drop out of sight. The witness said she heard no engine noises at the time of the accident.

A Sheriff's deputy found the plane upside down with Gersbach pinned inside the cockpit. After being freed by a City of Plano rescue unit, the pilot was pronounced dead by Judge Johnny Pleasant.

Another Song

The first reunion of all former Plano High School Choirsters will be held in Harrington Park Saturday from 3 until 8 p.m. Former students who have sung in choirs directed by R.J. Winters will have the opportunity of renewing friendships and enjoying a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m. Gail Terry Jaynes, a member of Winters' first choir in 1966, will be in attendance with her 23-month-old son Jason. The whole family is invited and Winters hopes that the former choir members will drop by even if for a short time. In his 11 years of directing the Plano choir program, Winters has seen the program grow from 250 members in grades 7-12 to 1500 in grades 6-12. (Staff photo by Mike Newman).

Balloons Transmit Message

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Members of a religious group Saturday will release 1,000 balloons carrying the message that nuclear fallout travels with the wind like balloons.

The ceremony will mark the 32nd anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

Nathaniel Batchelder, a member of the Community of John XXIII, said the balloons also will carry a small flyer with the message, "No more Hiroshimas."

Community members and their supporters will share a meal at Stars and Stripes Park before the 6:30 p.m. balloon release.

"We want to make public our concerns about the costs and dangers of nuclear proliferation," Batchelder said, "but we also want our shared meal and balloon release to be a joyful celebration of life."

Ann Funnell, another member of the group, said, "Incredible amounts of money are spent each year worldwide to build nuclear arsenals that everyone hopes will never be used."

Surplus Mexican Gas Could Warm Yankees This Winter

HOUSTON (UPI) — Natural gas from Mexico may help ease American shortages as early as this winter.

Mexico, which already has more gas than it needs, is in the process of exploring newly discovered major reserves such as the Reforma field. A spokesman for an American natural gas company said Reforma "may be more important than the north slope of Alaska and development of these reserves could make Mexico one of the world's largest exporters of oil and gas."

The United States, on the other hand, has not been able to meet demand with domestic gas supplies and last winter the shortages forced factory shutdowns in the Midwest and East.

Six American energy companies Thursday said a tentative deal with the Mexican oil and gas agency could provide additional natural gas this winter.

Lew Bullion of Tenneco, Inc., said up to 50 million cubic feet per day may be available as early as the 1977-78 heating season from Northeastern Mexican gas fields.

Bullion said the companies plan to buy 2 billion cubic feet of surplus Mexican gas daily when Petroleos Mexicanos completes a 750-mile pipeline from the Chiapas and Tabasco fields to the border.

The six-year contract, intended to ease the nation's worsening natural gas shortage, would peg the price of gas imported from Mexico to the heating value price of No. 2 fuel oil in New York Harbor.

Treasure Search Spotlights Autos

DETROIT (UPI) — If your last name is Yates, there's a possibility your great-grandfather was the first man in America to drive one of the first Model A's off Henry Ford's assembly line.

On July 20, 1903, a Dr. H.W. Yates of Detroit took delivery of Model A No. 4 — 35 days after the Ford Motor Co. was organized.

No one knows what happened to Model A's No. 1, 2 or 3. Ford archivists think company officials kept them — the first executives' cars.

For that matter, no one knows what happened to No. 4, either.

Yates paid $750 for that 1903 Model A. If it's still in existence, it's probably worth closer to $30,000 to a private collector.

In connection with its 75th anniversary, Ford has launched a worldwide "treasure hunt" for any 1903 Model A cars — not to be confused with the Model A's introduced in 1928 — that might still be undiscovered.

No great prize is involved, just a free lunch with Ford executives next June 16 — the 75th anniversary of the founding of the company — and a commemorative plaque.

Ford built 1,708 Model A's during the company's first 15 months in existence. It knows where 40 of them are — the oldest, No. 28, now lodged in the Panhandle Plains Museum in Canyon, Texas.

George DeAngelis, an antique car expert and a member of Ford's 75th anniversary committee, said some of the original Model A's are known to be in the hands of private collectors and museums. The Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, established by the company's founder, has two of them.

"We think this search is unique in automotive history," says DeAngelis. "We know there are more than a few Model A's around, despite their age and the limited number built. But how many and where we don't know."

To aid the search, here are some of the early owners:

Model A No. 5 was delivered to the Ohio Motor Car Co. in Cleveland in July 23, 1903. No. 6 went to the Canada Cycle and Motor Co. in Toronto on Aug. 1 and H.M. Jewett of Detroit took delivery of Model A No. 7.

DeAngelis doubts many of the Model A's will be found hidden away in barns or garages after this length of time.

Algae Causes Odd Odor

An unpleasant taste and odor in Plano's water supply is expected to be corrected soon.

A spokesman for the North Texas Municipal Water District said a change in Lake Lavon is responsible for the change.

The water is perfectly safe for consumption, although its taste and odor is objectionable to some people.

The district said a phenomenon common to all lakes in this area is responsible for the change. Water with high algae content rises from the bottom of the lake to the surface.

Treatment for taste and odor control has been increased and the district expects the water to return to normal within several days.

Polanski Plea Bargains Rape Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Movie director Roman Polanski, accused of drugging and raping a 13-year-old girl, will plead guilty to reduced charges Monday, probably eliminating the expected sensational trial.

The district attorney's office Thursday revealed that prosecutors had reached a plea bargain with Polanski and his attorney, but details of the agreement were not made public.

Eastern Problems

A group of over 40 east Plano residents gathered in an informal meeting Thursday night at the library to discuss problems which they feel exist on the east side of town. The talks centered around the proposed Plano Independent School District bond election and what facilities it might provide for east Plano. Among complaints aired were poor student bus transportation, crowded conditions at Forman Elementary and eastside growth being impaired because of inadequate school facilities. The group agreed to form two committees for further study of the problems and meet again Thursday. A time and place for the next meeting was not announced. (Staff photos).

Shuttle: Future Look

Tomorrows Designs In Today's Rockets

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor
HOUSTON (UPI) — Space agency engineers predict a key practical payoff of the space shuttle rocket plane now undergoing flight testing in a California desert will be its contribution to the design of commercial airliners.

"It's going to allow a tremendous increase in efficiency of airplane design," said Christopher Kraft, director of the Johnson Space Center. "The techniques that we are developing now are going to be directly applicable to the next generation of commercial vehicles in this country."

This will happen, he said in an interview, with the use of computerized flight control systems based on the one that will translate the desires of space shuttle pilots into precise movements of its aerodynamic control surfaces.

In most airplanes today, there is a direct mechanical or hydraulic link between the pilot and controls. In the winged space shuttle, this is replaced by a "fly by wire" control system.

The shuttle has four main flight control computers plus 200 electronic "black boxes". The computers receive commands from the pilots and their navigation systems, perform the necessary computations and transmit the proper orders to the black boxes which in turn position shuttle control surfaces such as the elevator, flap and elevons, which combine the functions of elevators and ailerons in ordinary airplanes.

This is something like the human body works. The eyes and ears sense what is going on and signal the brain to react. The brain then transmits the proper instructions to the rest of the body such as legs, arms, hands and fingers.

The shuttle pilots can have the flight control system fly the ship automatically if they want. Or they can fly in what is called the control stick mode. This is expected to be the normal way of operating the shuttle. The pilots use a pistolgrip control stick to signal the computers how they want the craft to fly.

They also have the option of controlling the ship themselves with control surfaces responding only to their use of the stick and rudder pedals. This is expected to be a very difficult way to fly the shuttle.

Kraft said use of the computerized digital flight control system with its built-in redundancy will be extremely reliable and will allow airplanes to have smaller stability surfaces.

"We will be able to build airplanes that are basically stable because of the electronics in the vehicle rather than the aerodynamics of the vehicle as has been the case in the past," he said.

"It doesn't have to be aerodynamically stable. We can make it stable with the electronics system and therefore reduce the size of the tail surfaces, the control surfaces, the rudder, the horizontal stabilizer and so forth.

"That's going to bring the size of the vehicle down, the weight of the vehicle down and therefore make it a lot more efficient than it has been in the past.

"And that's what we need in this country if we're going to overcome the energy problems we're faced with in driving airplanes."

Already, he said, major airplane manufacturers have aircraft on their drawing boards using technology developed for the space shuttle.

"Flying this vehicle into and out of orbit is going to revolutionize aviation," predicted astronaut chief John Young.

Russian cars to be imported

Sometime during late 1977 or early 1978 Americans should be able to buy a Russian LADA to be imported by Satra Motors through Savannah, GA.

First year sales are expected to be 10,000 cars with a growth to 25,000 within a few years.

WORK AGREEMENT
In 1968, 58 per cent of the people questioned agreed with the statement: "Hard work will always pay off if you have faith in yourself and stick to it." In 1976, only 43 per cent agreed.

THE RADIO HOBBYIST

By Frederick O. Maia
KKB-0924 - W5UTT
Executive Director, American Radio Council

The FCC states that it is the responsibility of all radio hobbyists, both CB and "ham" to limit their modulation percentage to 100 percent. Many people, particularly those new to the hobby, are not too sure exactly what this means.

"Modulation" (or "talk power") is the process of varying a radio wave at the rate at which we are speaking into a microphone. The microphone emits a minute voltage which is amplified and applied to the radio "carrier" wave. It is called a "carrier" because it transports the spoken "audio" communication. As you know, voice communication, by itself, will not travel very far, but will when impressed on a radio wave. The percentage of modulation is determined by the magnitude of audio voltage in relation to the carrier.

Nearly all "ham" and some CB radio sets have front panel microphone gain controls. It is a sign of a better transceiver and worth the slightly extra money. Some radios even have built in "limiter" circuits which can prevent over-modulation and accompanying "bleed-over". A 100 percent modulated signal is the ideal "best performance" situation and carries the most unscrambled signal. When modulation is in excess of 100 percent, an extra-wide poor quality splattering signal is sure to result. This is the reason that the FCC limits modulation to 100 percent.

Some hobbyists have soft voices - others have booming voices. Some talk with the microphone close to their mouth, others at a distance. Modulation percentage is affected by the loudness of the voice speaking into the microphone. While a normal voice might modulate the radio set adequately, a wee little voice might only modulate 50 percent.

Many CBs, particularly the less expensive ones, only modulate 100 percent when you speak in a loud voice and talking very close to the microphone. If a standard microphone is inadequate, or if the radio lacks sufficient preamplification, modulation can even be more seriously reduced. What this means is that, even if you have a good radio signal, your voice will not sound as loud or intelligible as it should.

If you buy a radio set without a front panel microphone gain control and require more modulation, you can purchase an accessory called a "power mike". Before you go to the expense, however, it is best to have the modulation checked by a licensed technician. Keep in mind that radio outlets are in business to sell equipment to the consuming public and some unscrupulous retailers might sell you a power mike without first determining your need for one. It happens every day. Probably more power mikes are in the hands of hobbyists that do not need them than any other accessory!

You have all heard wide signals across two or more channels. A power mike is usually the reason. The owner was told that he would "get out further" with one. While it is true that higher modulation percentage does slightly increase your total output power, the increase that result from 70 percent to 100 percent modulation is so small, it is nearly non-existent. Do not let anyone tell you that a power mike will drastically increase your radio range....it won't. What it will do is make your voice seem more louder and intelligible....and that is only if your modulation percentage is inadequate to start with.

The newer amplified microphones (those manufactured after January 1, 1977) are required by law to have built in modulation limiting. Even these can be over-modulated, however, if the front panel gain control is set too high.

Under no circumstances should you ever arbitrarily buy a power microphone. Power mikes should only be used where it has been absolutely determined by a qualified technician that one is needed. Too many radio hobbyists have been led to believe that a power microphone will increase your overall radiated power and range regardless of the present modulation percentage of the radio set it is to be used on.

If increased radio range is what you want, then you would be far better off putting that money into a more efficient, higher gain, better located antenna. An antenna with a low 3 decibel gain factor can effectively double your radiated power....something that no power mike could ever do.

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — A West Texas cowboy who wanted to be buried with his boots on would have second thoughts when he saw what one local cobbler offers.

"Somebody who would buy working cowboy boots wouldn't be caught dead with a pair of blue cowboy boots," said Charles Wade, owner of Lusk's Boot Shop.

"The Lusk tradition was founded on dress boots."

That tradition dates back to 1946, when Willie Lusk rented a shop. Within six months he was six months behind in orders.

"When a man puts on my boots, they don't hurt his feet and he can walk straight," Lusk once said. "That's the real glory of it."

During his heyday, Lusk made boots for many of the big name western entertainers, including Hoot Gibson, Ray Price and Merle Haggard. Lusk died last year at age 62.

Wade bought the shop from Lusk's widow this spring and is trying to maintain the reputation. He was forced to move from the tiny shop located on the edge of downtown when the roof caved in during a thunderstorm to a small shopping plaza in a busy residential neighborhood.

The shop, a long, narrow warehouse, is a miniature assemblyline, using three fulltime bootmakers, all Lusk proteges.

Evelyn Green cuts the top portion of boot from the stacks of different types of leather arranged on shelves in the back of the building. She also stitches the elaborate patterns that decorate the leather.

Then she turns the leather over to one of the two workers who shape the bottoms.

"Everything is leather — there's not a nail in them," said Joe McMelley, 53, who has been making boots since he was a teen-ager. Only glue and tiny wooden pegs that look like broken toothpicks hold them together.

"They'll last about three times as long as factory made boots," he said.

Sitting at a small wooden table with a jumble of pliers and rags scattered around, McMelley said it takes him about 10 hours to finish a pair of boots, perhaps one reason he considers it a dying art.

The Lusk boot starts at $225 — and comes in everything from snake to shark. But McMelley said once a person buys one pair, he's likely sold on the comfort derived from the five separate foot measurements and the quality of leather.

Vegetable Expert Slated; Greenhouses to Be Topic

"Commercial Greenhouse Vegetables - How Do You Grow Them?" is the theme for an Aug. 8 meeting at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center south of Plano. Dr. John Larsen, widely respected Extension greenhouse vegetable production specialist from College Station, will discuss growing tomatoes, cucumbers and lettuce. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the meeting is open and free to the public. Dr. Larsen will cover varieties, transplanting and growing techniques.

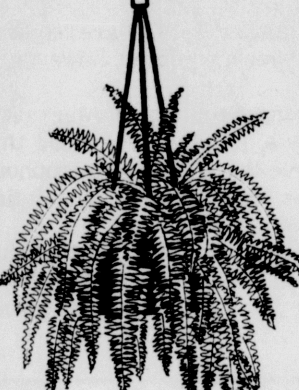

The Texas A&M University Center is located south of Plano General Hospital on Coit Road. For further information, call 231-5362.

Caution Urged Pesticide Season Here

The peak season for using pesticides is at hand, so home gardeners should give careful consideration to safe storage of these materials. Pesticides are often stored in a garage or shed without thinking that this place is as dangerous as an unprotected medicine cabinet, says James R. Risinger, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Curious youngsters often explore under kitchen sinks and low-to-the-floor places. These are the primary places to avoid for storing bleaches, pesticides and fertilizers. High cabinets in the house or garage are suitable for storing pesticides if they can be locked. Often a symbol (skull and crossbones) that a child associates with "bad stuff" is helpful. Poison Control Center reports reveal that children under five years of age are involved in more than half of all accidental swallowings involving a variety of substances. But less than five percent of all these poisonings are caused by pesticides, points out Risinger. Pesticides should not be kept in storage for more than a year to protect both children and plants from the aged chemicals. All containers used to store the pesticides should be non-breakable and closed securely. Remember, pesticides are just as safe as the person using them, warns the county agent.

The Backyard Gardner

By PATRICK DENTON
Copley News Service

This week I would like to tell my backyard gardening friends something about a very useful booklet about roses. It is called 1977 HANDBOOK FOR SELECTING ROSES — a Rose Buying Guide from the American Rose Society.

This little booklet begins by listing the different classifications of roses — hybrid tea, miniature, climber, rambler. Then follows 22 pages of rose names, listed alphabetically. Following each rose is its classification so you will know what sort of rose it is — R for rambler for example. Then its color is given.

Each rose is evaluated on a scale of 10 — 10 for perfect, 9 to 9.9 for outstanding down to 5.9 and lower for "of questionable value."

At the end of the booklet is given a handy list of especially highly rated roses, those rated 8.0 higher, to help simplify the choosing of a new rose. This list is arranged with the roses divided into the different classes. All the highly rated hybrid teas are listed together, for example.

Lastly, the booklet lists three 1977 All-American Rose Selections. I will mention them here, in case some readers might like to inquire locally about them right away. The Hybrid Tea rose that was chosen is called Double Delight, and is described as probably one of the most outstanding hybrid tea's ever produced. It has magnificent red and white coloring on large blooms, with a strong, pleasing fragrance like spice and anise combined.

The 1977 award-winning Floribunda is called First Edition. It has luminous coral flowers with a fluorescent glow that makes them stand out even on a cloudy day.

Prominent is the Grandiflora award winner. It is a brilliant, hot orange, shaded yellow at the base of the petals. The blooms are particularly long-lasting, often lasting 10 days when cut.

To order this Handbook for Selecting Roses, send 25 cents in coin, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to: The American Rose Society, P.O. Box 30,000, Shreveport, Louisiana 71130. I have used the booklet in choosing the roses for both my Tea rose bed and my Floribunda hedge, and have been very glad of this help in choosing.

Along with my booklet this year the Rose Society sent along a most useful leaflet called Guidelines to Good Roses. It is dedicated to the idea that ANYONE, given knowledge of a few basic facts, can grow and enjoy roses — a perfect bit of literature for the backyard gardener.

There are also simple planting directions, and tips on fertilizing and insect and disease control. Beautifully simple pruning tips are given. The point is made that pruning is done in the spring when leaf buds first begin to sprout. Summer pruning is one with the cutting of blooms for the house, taking the stem off at an outward-pointing leaf, ensuring that the stub left will immediately develop flower-bearing wood.

Summer Prime Problem Time

Summer is prime insect-disease time. Outlined below are many current problems, some common, some not so common.

Insects include: squash bugs, sevin dust on younger bugs, hand pick adults; crickets, earwigs, diazinon; tomato hornworm, sevin dust or spray, or hand pick; asps (puss caterpillar), sevin; leaf-cutting bee (on roses), most any commercial rose insecticide will control; leaf miners — dimethoate (check label before spraying vegetables).

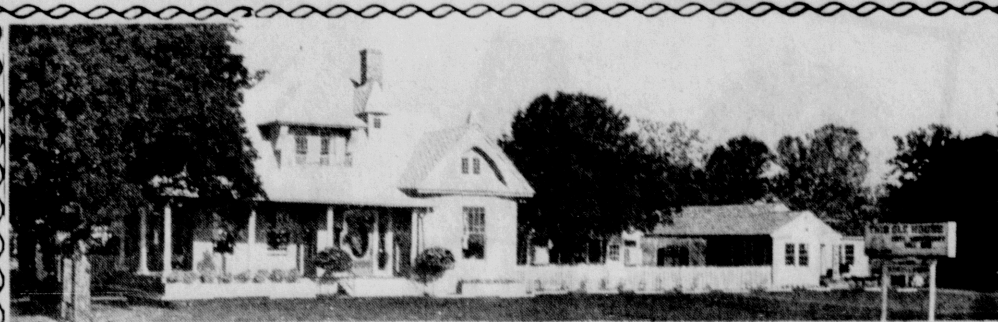

Also, 12 spotted cucumber beetle (looks like green lady bug, but is not beneficial), sevin or diazinon repeatedly; fire ants, mount treatment with chlordane or mirex; leaf rollers, sevin; hickory shuckworm on pecans (keeps kernels from filling), guthion, pecan weevil, sevin; and black pecan aphid (causes yellow spots on leaves), yellow aphid (causes honeydew which coats objects below), malathion or diazinon.

Diseases are as follows: oak decline on post, live and red oaks, no EPA approved chemical control. Keep plants vigorous, disinfect pruning tools from limb to limb; nematodes, symptoms of this microscopic soil-borne round worm are stunting, abnormal roots. Use any commercial nematocide available from your nurseryman; slime mold (gray patches in lawn) does no harm, no chemicals recommended, pecan scab (causes water-soaked pecans that fall prematurely), apply final spray for season using Duter. Can be combined with pecan insect control; leaf spot on mulberry, no permanent damage. Causes premature defoliation. Captan, benomyl, maneb (fusarium). Sudden wilting and dead plants. No chemical control. Rotation will help. Fall grown squash less damaged.

This is the nursery with certified personnel to give you reliable diagnosis of plant and tree problems, correct prescription, and honest advice.

Fall Gardens Should Be in Planning Now

Believe it or not, it's time to start thinking about planting a fall garden.

Thinking about a fall garden is sort of like trying to decide whether or not to trade your old car in for a new one — that old one sure has been good, and you might get a few more miles out of it yet.

That's the way most of us think about our old garden. We started it from seed! We nurtured it from a seedling! We watched it grow and mature! And now to pull it up — no way! It still may have some good "miles" left just like the old car.

But let's be realistic. That old car can only last so long before parts are worn and materials thin. Our plants are the same; they've only got so much mileage. After they have struggled to produce those great vegetables all season, don't they deserve a rest? You need the added horsepower, or plantpower in this case, of new, vigorously growing plants to begin the fall gardening season.

The great thing is that fall gardens are usually more successful than spring gardens. The reasons are simple. Most vegetable seeds germinate rapidly in warm soils, and, since many vegetables are subtropical in origin, they grow faster in warm weather. Spring offers neither of these advantages. Just about the time when we have warm soils and weather in the spring, the hot temperatures destroy our beautifully growing plants. The fall starts hot, and then, as our plants reach maturity and bloom, the weather cools and production begins.

Another great thing about fall gardening in Texas is the ability to grow in the fall some vegetables that don't do well in spring gardens. For instance, did your broccoli bloom pretty this spring? It will bloom and ruin much faster in the spring than in the fall and won't produce nearly as many side shoots. Have you ever tried to grow cauliflower in the spring? Cauliflower is a cinch in the fall; and, of course, you have carrots, brussel sprouts, collard greens and cabbage all "winter" long in many areas of Texas. Lettuce doesn't bolt or form that weird, long stalk in the fall as quickly as it does in the spring.

There are many advantages to fall planting and "winter gardening" in Texas. We've talked about a few.

Moisture Can Be Stretched

Hot, dry summer weather is here and that means following certain practices to "stretch" the moisture available for your lawn and garden.

"Wise use of available moisture helps keep your lawn and garden plants growing and healthy while at the same time reducing the amount of irrigation water required," points out Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To start with, use a good mulch at least two inches deep around flowers, shrubs and other plants. This reduces evaporation loss from the soil surface, lowers the soil temperature, reduces weed growth and cuts down on soil cultivation. Shredded pine bark, pine straw, wood chips, chopped wheat or oat straw or other organic matter is good for mulching.

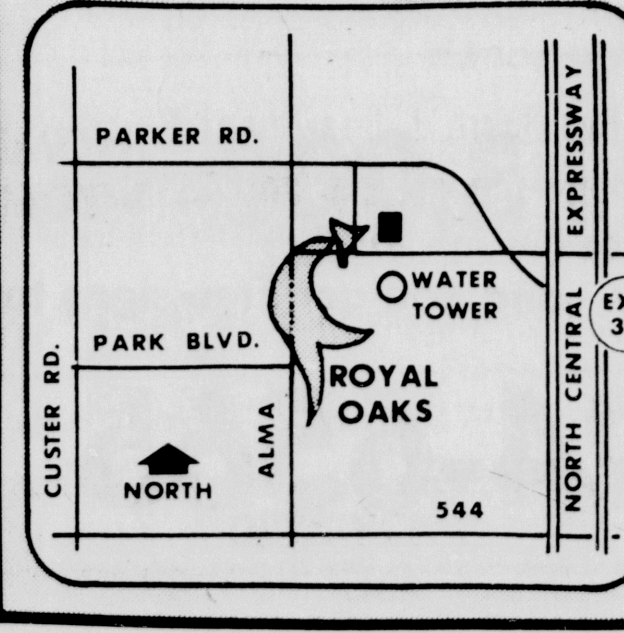

When watering, the horticulturist recommends soaking the soil to a depth of six to 10 inches. Of course, where the soil surface is sloping, reduce the rate of application to avoid excessive runoff.

Deep watering encourages deep root penetration and provides a greater reservoir of moisture for plants. This enables plants to withstand dry weather better than when waterings are light and frequent. After a thorough soaking of the soil, watering can be delayed until plants begin to wilt.

Apply fertilizer, insecticides or fungicides to plants only when there is adequate moisture in the soil. Severe foliage burn can occur if these materials are applied when plants are under water stress conditions. Fertilize lawns when needed since a well-fertilized lawn will use water more efficiently and will require less water to keep it alive.

Immunization Month

Immunity Stressed

Immunization for the whole family is the goal of "August-Immunization Action Month"—as public and volunteer groups promote that campaign across Texas, says Carla Shearer, health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The danger is that immunizations are often delayed or forgotten. Childhood diseases don't seem threatening now. However, it is only by immunizing that we prevent epidemics, she says.

Here's what "immunity" is about: The body's immune mechanism—once activated—is a defense system of antibodies that fight infection.

When the body first meets a certain type of infection, it may be slow to respond in developing antibodies. But at the second meeting, the body has learned and is able to respond to the invasion more efficiently.

"Immunization, then, is artificial activation of this defense mechanism."

"Once the body has produced the antibodies, it is ready for an invasion of the real thing," the specialist explains.

Check with the doctor, she suggests. Bring family immunization records up to date and keep them that way.

Murphy City Council Studies New Budget

Members of the Murphy City Council approved the 1977 tax roll at their Tuesday evening meeting in the Murphy City Hall.

Assessed at 70 percent, the total assessed value in the City of Murphy amounted to $10,335,342.

Also at the meeting, the council established a preliminary budget for the recently-organized capital improvement committee. Some $5,500 has been allotted for the committee to study the city's capital improvement needs over the next few years.

The City Council will begin works sessions on the 1977-78 fiscal year budget on Aug. 12. One or two additional work sessions will be held and then a public hearing will be called.

Rub salt on coated iron

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I used my good iron to iron some rayon, nylon or other synthetic fabric that I thought was cotton and about one-third of the iron now has a coating on it. I did this once before and removed the coating with something but do not remember what so I hope you can suggest something. — JOCIE.

DEAR JOCIE — Try heating your iron enough to soften the residue on the iron, sprinkle salt on it and rub with a rough cloth or a fine steel wool pad. If once does not do it, try again. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I have found that on dry dusty days lots of dirt is tracked into the house which makes a lot of work and not good for any type of floor. The best solution I have found for this problem is to put a mildew-proof rug at the most used door, keep the rug damp and when family and friends wipe their feet on it their shoes are dust free. — MRS. L.S.S.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns the printing of packaged mixes for gravies, sauces, soft drinks, etc. Wh must they always have the variety name at the top of the package? I often use only a portion of a package and fold the top down to preserve the remainder and then it is impossible to tell at a glance what the package contains. If package design is of such importance it seems they could also print the name at the bottom or at least on the back at the bottom to save one the frustration of having to reopen the envelope to see what is inside.

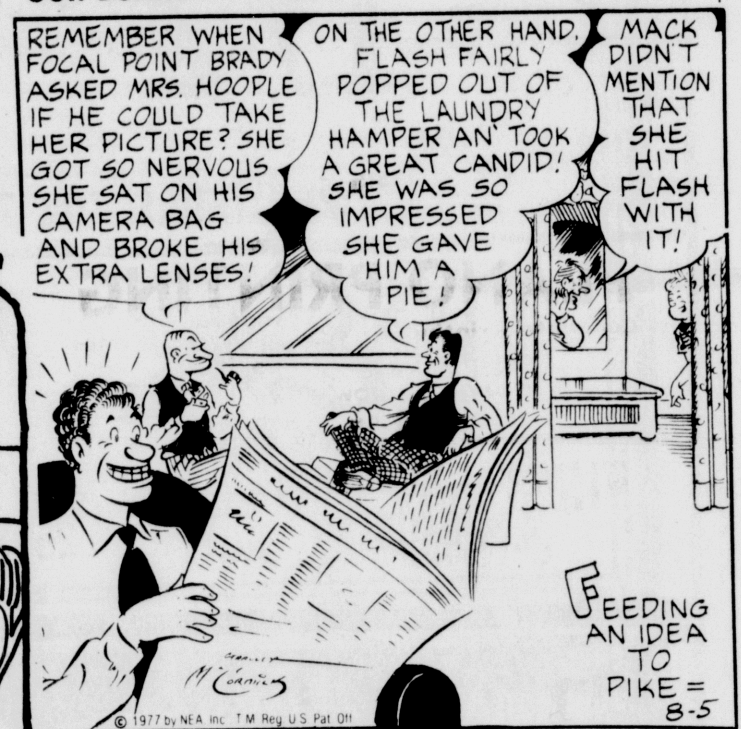

I would also like to join with Gerrie who recently complained of the boorish telephone manners so often encountered. The ones who irritate me most are those persons who dial my phone and then have the nerve to say "Who's this?" — MARIE.

DEAR POLLY — With food prices being so high we have to save in every way possible so I have found a clean, effective way to use every last drop of mustard, mayonnaise, etc. When the jars are almost empty store them turned on the side and every bit will fall into one spot on the bottom side. No more mess on knives and hands and every drop is used. — LINDA J.

DEAR POLLY — I am sure everyone knows the trick of putting flour or cornstarch on the hands so as to slip rubber gloves on with ease. My little additional trick is to wipe my hands dry with the gloves still on when I am finished with the job at hand. The hands are dried just as they would be with no gloves on. The gloves do not have to be hung up to dry. Take them off and put right in the drawer. — KAY.

ASTRO-GRAPH Bernice Bede Osol

For Saturday, Aug. 6, 1977

August 6, 1977

New personal ambitions could be awakened in you this coming year. That is admirable. You must be careful not to get so involved you don't take time to smell the roses.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Pride goeth before a fall and you could take a mighty tumble if you place too much stress on your image today rather than on whether you're paying your dues. To find out more about yourself send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You lack faith in your ideas today, and consequently put too much stock in criticism. As a result you will accomplish little.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful that you're not maneuvered into a position today so that you'll feel obligated. If this occurs, it could ruin a friendship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Should your opinion conflict with that of the majority today, keep it to yourself. You'll only make waves. Nothing constructive will result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't take on a task today that you feel uneasy about before you begin. The job you do won't be a credit to you or to the project at hand.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A heap of problems will develop if you try, unasked, to manage someone else's affairs today. Don't butt-in where you're not invited.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your mate may be a trifle testy today. The best course for you could be to keep quiet and stay out of range.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Talk up to people today. Don't look down on anyone. This even applies to those who, for your own reasons, you might not consider to be worth the effort.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Before you join that friendly poker game with your pals today, be sure it's of the penny-ante variety, or you could take a bath.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to magnify family problems today. You could create a major issue that would distress all in your household.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Usually you're the one in the crowd who can spot a silver lining first. Not so today — you see more dark clouds than bright ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Handle your money frugally today, or a bad case of spender's remorse could set in to put a damper on some things you're looking forward to.

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Christ is not referring to those who are economically poor, rather he refers to those who admit their poverty of spirit and place themselves entirely in God's hands. It implies an openness to God's spirit that is not present in the proud and haughty. Even the great and powerful admit before God their need for His guidance. This, Christ believes, is the proper spirit for those who aspire to the Kingdom of Heaven.

Football Kicking Off

Craig Morton, a 12-year veteran, begins the job of proving himself all over again when he starts at quarterback for the Denver Broncos against the Baltimore Colts, in one of two Friday night games which begin the National Football League's pre-season schedule.

The Broncos' 9-5 record in 1976 was the best in their history but they were still dissatisfied with Steve Ramsey's performance and traded him to the New York Giants for Morton.

The Broncos have three other contenders for their No. 1 quarterback — Craig Penrose, Norris Weese and Steve Spurrier — so Morton actually is playing the preseason schedule — on a produce or else basis.

"I'm confident," said

Morton, "Moving the ball shouldn't be any trouble. It's still an open job."

The New York Jets and Philadelphia Eagles, two teams starting massive rebuilding programs, meet in the only other Friday night game.

The Jets, playing without the glamorous Joe Namath who is now with the Los Angeles Rams, are entering a new era after a 3-11 record in 1976. Coach Walt Michaels has announced he will switch former all-pro tight end Richard Caster and wide receiver Jerome Barkum and insert rookie Wesley Walker of California for veteran wide receiver David Knight.

The Eagles, meanwhile, will be taking their first look under competitive conditions at quarterback Ron Jaworski. Jaworski played out his option at Los Angeles and was dealt to the Eagles for tight end Charlie Young.

City Employs Sumrow To Manage Tennis Center

Ken Sumrow recently joined the City of Plano in the position of Tennis Superintendent.

Sumrow will coordinate and direct the city tennis program as well as managing the Municipal Tennis Center after its completion.

Sumrow served as varsity tennis coach at Plano Senior High School from 1972 through the end of the 1976-77 school year. Sumrow's school teams compiled a cumulative dual match record of 82-31-18 during that period and placed second in district in 1976 and 1977.

Sumrow is well-known in Plano due to his employment with the school district as well as summer employment with the Plano Parks and Recreation Dept. for the past three years.

Bob Woodruff, director of Parks and Recreation, said that Sumrow's experience and knowledge of the community should insure that the City of Plano tennis program and center will be one of the best in the area.

The Parks and Recreation Dept. is happy to have him join the team, Woodruff added.

Dove Season Set

Area Hunters who have waited to schedule vacations with dove season can mark their calendars. The Parks and Wildlife Department Commission met recently and set seasons, bag limits and possessions.

The north zone season for mourning doves will run a straight 60 days—Sept. 1 through Oct. 30. Unlike last year, there will not be a split season.

South zone mourning dove season will be divided into two segments, however. The commission set Sept. 24 through Nov. 6 for the first half and Dec. 31, 1977, through Jan. 15, 1978, for the second.

Whitewing and mourning dove season will run concurrently Sept. 3-4 and 10-11 in those counties along the Rio Grande Valley, as in past years.

Bag and possession limits for all doves will be 10 and 20, respectively. Hunters during the Sept. 3-4 and 10-11 concurrent whitewing and mourning dove season may take 10 of each species and have 20 in possession after the first day of hunting.

Parks and Wildlife Commissioners were unable at their July 22 meeting to establish shooting hours on migratory game birds.

The U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service is involved in litigation on shooting hours for all migratory game birds. The framework will be available soon to P&WD and other game and fish agencies in the United States; hours will probably be determined by the first of August.

Kirchner Brothers To Swim TAGS

John and Tom Kirchner of 2510 Rockbrook will be participating this weekend in the Texas Age Group Swimming Championships in New Braunfels. This marks the Kirchner brothers fifth consecutive appearance at the State AAU Championships.

John is a 14 year old who will be entering the ninth grade at Williams High School and will be swimming in nine events at TAGS.

His events include the 400 meter medley and freestyle relays, 100 and 200 meters breaststroke, 50, 100, 200, and 400 meters freestyle, and 200 meters individual medley.

Tom is a 13 year old who will be entering the eighth grade at Bowman Middle School and will be swimming four events including the 400 meter medley relay, 400 freestyle relay and the 100 and 200 meter breaststroke.

The Kirchners swim for Dallas Swim Club and are coached by Richard Klatt.

sacrifice. On ball four to Alan Bannister. Sundberg was charged with a passed ball as Soderholm scored to make the score 5-1.

Texas bounced back with three runs in the seventh on a single by Sundberg, a walk to Mike Hargrove, a single by Willie Horton and a two-run double by pinch-hitter Kurt Bevacqua.

The Rangers threatened in the eighth when Bump Wills led off with a bunt single, advanced to second on a sacrifice and stole third. But Bert Campaneris, attempting a suicide squeeze, bunted too hard to first baseman Jim Spencer who threw to Essian who tagged Wills out at the plate.

The White Sox scored three runs in the fourth on a two-run single by Chet Lemon and a single by Essian.

Steve Stone, who was relieved in the seventh, received credit for his 11th victory in 18 decisions while Lerrin LaGrow picked up his 18th save.

Running Wild PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies set a National League record of 83 total bases in one game on July 23, 1930. There were 8 home runs, 9 doubles and 33 singles. The Pirates won 16-15 in 13-innings.
